

Nixon Criticism Bad For Unity, Romney Thinks

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. George Romney, discussing future unity in the Republican party, criticized Richard M. Nixon Sunday for the latter's post-election position on New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"When you're trying to unify something," Romney said, "you don't begin to say things that will create greater feeling and division. You undertake to include those who are in a position to make a contribution."

He made his statements in an interview on radio station WJR.

Republican Romney, re-elected in Michigan last week by a large majority, despite Democrat President Johnson's sweep of the state, made the interview statement in answer to a question for his view on Nixon's charge against Rockefeller last week.

"Poor Loser"

Nixon said in New York that Rockefeller was a "divider" of the Republican party because of what he called the New Yorker's failure to give full support to GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater. He called Rockefeller the greatest divisive force in the GOP during the campaign.

Rockefeller subsequently rapped Nixon as a "poor loser." He called Nixon's remarks "peevish." Nixon had supported Goldwater in the campaign.

"If we're going to have a two-party system," Romney added in his comment on Nixon's statement, "then each party has to have a very good base. If you're going to have a political party that can command the respect and support of 50 per cent or more of the people of this country, then there must be room for considerable diversity within fundamentals."

New Leadership Needed

Romney also said he believed the GOP can be both broadened and unified "regardless of what circumstances have to be dealt with."

"I think that one of the things that is evident is a broad desire on the part of many men and women in a position of leadership in the party to take steps to build for the future and I'm sure that desire is so broad that it cannot be thwarted," he said.

Romney termed "pure speculation" a suggestion by Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman, that the Republicans might form a leadership group outside the regular party organization in event Goldwater was unwilling to give up control of the national committee.

Romney, who refused to endorse Goldwater for the presidency, repeated that he took the position because of "basic principle differences" with the Arizona senator.

He added, however, that he respected Goldwater "as an individual" and said: "I think that Sen. Goldwater has demonstrated in the past his concern about the Republican party as a whole and I think it's premature to assume it's going to be necessary to find some way around Sen. Goldwater."

Vietnam Mortar Barrage Amiss; Kills American

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Vietnamese mortar barrage meant for the Communist Viet Cong killed a U.S. Army captain Sunday night and wounded another American, reliable sources reported today.

The captain was the 2220th American to die in combat in Viet Nam since 1961.

He was identified in Washington as Capt. Agrierto A. Garcia, 31, of Laredo, Tex.

Two Vietnamese officers were killed in the misdirected barrage and six other Vietnamese wounded, the sources said.

The rounds reportedly fell on the government unit as it waited in an ambush lair for the Viet Cong near Duc Hoa, about 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

The two Americans were with about 60 Vietnamese infantry troops on a night patrol.

The sources said the unit called for the mortar fire on a suspected Viet Cong emplacement. At least one round fell on the unit.

An investigation was being made.

"It was terribly sad," said another American adviser, "but it was just one of those things that can happen. It was night, and it is always more dangerous then. But we will continue with these operations."

A U.S. spokesman announced two other U.S. Army officers were wounded by shell fragments while piloting an armed helicopter against Viet Cong positions southeast of Saigon.

A U.S. Army enlisted man was slightly wounded while assisting in clearing a booby-trapped area 100 miles west of Saigon.

Laborites Hold Slim Majority

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor government pitched into their first battle for survival today against a Conservative assault on steel nationalization.

Wilson's slender majority was expected to hold up in the first House of Commons vote and again Tuesday when the House votes on a Conservative motion of no confidence in Wilson's entire program. Defeat on either would force the government to resign and call a new election.

The Labor party won the Oct. 15 general election with a margin of only five Commons seats over the Conservative and Liberal opposition. This was temporarily cut to four Sunday night when Laborite Brian O'Malley entered a hospital for an emergency appendectomy.

Two other ailing Laborites announced they would be on hand for the vote. Frank McLeavy, 65, said he would come from his hospital bed, and Sir Geoffrey de Greitas, 59, said he would hobble in carpet slippers to ease a foot injury from a car accident.

India Stays Out Of Nuclear Race

GUNTUR, India (AP) — The ruling Congress party has rejected proposals that India build its own atom bomb to offset Red China's new nuclear power.

The party's governing committee supported Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri Sunday after he told it entry into a nuclear arms race with Peking would be a "gross betrayal" of the principles of nonviolence espoused by Mohandas K. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru.

Traffic Accidents Kill 17 In State

By The Associated Press

Two Traverse City youths and a Beulah woman, killed in a two-car intersection collision near Interlochen, were among the 17 persons who died in weekend traffic accidents on Michigan's streets and highways.

The Associated Press weekend traffic fatality count began at 6 p. m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Strikes At GM Ended; Ford Co. Tackles Tieups

DETROIT (AP)—Negotiations in Ford Motor Co. key plant strikes in three states switched from the local level to top-level bargaining today in an effort to speed agreement.

Top management and United Auto Workers representatives took over in negotiations at Ford headquarters in Dearborn.

Disputes Idle 25,000

The three strikes—at stamping plants in Buffalo, N. Y., and Chicago Heights, Ill., and an aluminum factory at Sheffield, Ala., —were among nine local level walkouts keeping 25,000 employees idle.

The string of local strikes has cut into Ford passenger car production by a company-estimated 16 per cent and truck production by 34 per cent. Ford has 160,000 hourly employees at 90 locations.

All nine strikes began Friday, seven weeks after Ford and the union reached agreement Sept. 18 on national contract terms. Local agreements supplement the national understanding.

A threatened strike at Ford's St. Louis assembly plant was avoided when local-level agreement was reached there Sunday night. UAW Local 325, representing 1,700 workers, had set a strike deadline there of 11 a. m. today.

Decks Cleared

While Ford continued to have labor troubles, General Motors had cleared the decks of the last of its local strikes and was ready to hit 100 per cent production rates.

GM and the UAW came to terms Sunday at the Fisher Body plant in Atlanta, Ga. Atlanta is one of General Motors' 130 production and manufacturing points in the country employing 350,000 men.

Local strikes in GM had crippled the world's biggest automaker for an extensive period after settlement with the union on a national contract.

Ford strikes also included assembly plants in Dallas and two at Wayne, Mich., and part plants in Sterling, Township, Mich., and Ypsilanti, Mich.

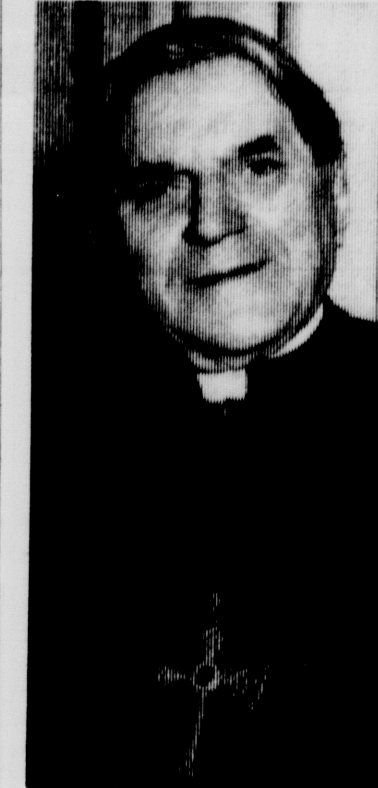

Top management has called the strikes "completely unnecessary. The union has said every unresolved local issue at the struck plants has been settled at other plants. The issues in general have to do with working conditions."

Rep. Powell Hears Rumors Of Jobs As Labor Secretary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., says he has heard a rumor that he might be offered appointment as secretary of labor.

The 55-year-old congressman told reporters Sunday night he had heard the report "from a perfect stranger in New York just before leaving" for San Francisco.

Powell said such an offer from President Johnson would require "an agonizing decision." The job is held by W. Willard Wirtz, an appointee of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Hoffa Proposes 32-Hour Week

HOUSTON, Tex (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa predicts more than 10 million unemployed by the year 2000. His remedy: "A 32-hour work week and one-third more in weekly wages for the near future and a 24-hour work week and three times the current weekly wage scale by the year 2000."

Hoffa made the forecast and offered his solution on a week-end visit during which he blasted the Democrats, the Republicans, the government, the federal courts, big business, other labor unions, apathetic union members, state and federal laws and all news media.

He called the newly elected Democratic administration "a bunch of hypocrites." He accused the federal government of committing perjury against him in his trials. He said the Justice Department bribed jurors with "prostitutes, liquor and influence" in the Chattanooga, Tenn., trial in which he was convicted of jury tampering.

Two-Year Battle In Yemen Halted By Cease-Fire

SANA, Yemen (AP) — Both sides in Yemen's civil war were observing a cease-fire today after more than two years of fighting, reports from the Red Sea nation said.

President Abdullah Al-Sallal said the cease-fire went into effect Sunday 12 hours early. Al-Sallal's Republicans, who depend mostly on Egyptian troops, and the royalists agreed to it last week.

The royalist prime minister, Prince Hassan, said in a broadcast his side agreed to the cease-fire "for a limited time to see if the Egyptians are seriously intending to withdraw from Yemen." The royalist foreign minister, Ahmed Shami, said the royalists would never agree to replace the deposed ruler, Imam Mohammed Al-Badr.

Congress May Approve New Cabinet Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again it looks as though Congress might do something for President Johnson that it didn't do for President John F. Kennedy.

The word at the Capitol today was that Johnson, if he asks for it, can get congressional approval of a new Cabinet department to handle urban affairs and housing.

Congress had refused to go along with Kennedy's plan for the department. Similarly, it didn't pass the civil rights law he asked, nor a Social Security link for medical care for the aged.

Southerners Displeased

But Johnson got the civil rights bill through this year, and is all set to push in the new Congress for medical care. He may not have to work nearly so hard to get the new Cabinet department for urban affairs.

President Kennedy twice tried to get Congress to let him wrap up city affairs and housing in one department. First, a proposed law got blocked in a House committee. Then, when he sent his plan to Congress in the form of a government reorganization, the House vetoed it.

However, a good many of those who voted against Kennedy's plan were defeated for reelection Tuesday. The Democratic majority in the House was increased by approximately 40 seats, a formidable bloc.

One of the reasons Kennedy lost was that he announced beforehand that if Congress approved the new department, he would pick a Negro to head it. This displeased many Southerners and set off Republican protests that Kennedy was injecting the racial issue.

Big Subsidies Predicted

The Negro then in line for the job was Robert C. Weaver, federal housing and home finance administrator. Whether Johnson would appoint him remains to be seen.

Weaver has called for creation of the new department as "symbolic recognition of the right of the 73 per cent of the people of the nation living in urban areas to be represented at the Cabinet level."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards threw its weight against Kennedy's idea on the grounds that it was "a grand design to elevate housing to the Cabinet level." It said the problems of urban areas extended all through American life and the government could not effectively concentrate those problems in one department.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has taken the position that the proposed department would lead to big federal subsidies that would discourage communities from taking care of themselves.

New Japanese Cabinet Formed

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's new premier Eisaku Sato was sworn in tonight along with a cabinet in which he was the only important new member.

Sato retained all the ministers in the government of his predecessor, ailing Hayato Ikeda. Two minor cabinet officials were replaced.

The retention of Ikeda's cabinet underlined the expectation that Sato would continue Ikeda's policies, including his pro-Western, anti-Communist foreign policy.

Sato, 63 and an economic expert, succeeded Hayato Ikeda, who resigned because of a throat tumor after four years in office. Both are members of the ruling Liberal Democratic party.

In the voting in the lower house of the Diet, Sato received 283 votes, Socialist Jotaro Kawakami got 137, Suichiro Nishio of the Democratic-Socialists got 23, and Sanzo Nosaka, a Communist, got 4.

The 250-member upper house, voting simultaneously, gave Sato 146 votes, a majority.

Sato's election was assured earlier today when the Liberal Democrats nominated him for the post after a prolonged struggle within the party. State Minister Ichiro Kono, and former Foreign Minister Aichiyo Fugiyama also were contenders.

Ikeda, who announced his retirement Oct. 25, settled the contest with a note from his hospital bed recommending Sato.

Half Million Use Visiting Chance At Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Nearly 200,000 West Berliners passed through the wall over the weekend, bringing to a half million the number who have visited relatives in the Soviet sector since the Communists raised the barriers 11 days ago.

About 800,000 of the Western sector's 2.2 million citizens were eligible for one-day passes during the visiting period, which ends Thursday.

Traveling in the other direction, an estimated 15,000 elderly East Berliners have arrived in the Western sector for a month's visit.

Cabinet Heads Called To Texas For Conference

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson meets today with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as he pushes his campaign to keep next year's federal budget under $100 billion.

McNamara was invited to be Johnson's guest at the 400-acre LBJ Ranch to discuss Pentagon budgeting that will be crucial to the over-all federal spending plan destined for delivery to Congress in January.

Flying west from Washington with McNamara was Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance.

Rusk Arrives Tuesday

McNamara, coming to the Texas hill country without any formal agenda for his talks with Johnson, was to arrive late today. He will be an overnight guest at the ranch where the President has been relaxing since the Nov. 3 election.

McNamara will be joined here Tuesday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The President and the two key Cabinet members will jointly canvass some of the global military and diplomatic problems.

Johnson, for the second year in a row, is hopeful of keeping the federal budget from exceeding $100 billion.

Pentagon outlays, accounting for about half of all federal spending, will have a decisive impact on whether or not he achieves his goal for the fiscal year that begins next July 1.

Lays Cornerstone

The President, who will entertain President-elect Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico Thursday and Friday on his home acres, intends to spend the entire week at his ranch.

The President took the wheel Sunday when he and Mrs. Johnson drove 16 miles west to Fredericksburg to participate in cornerstone-laying ceremonies at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church. Mrs. Johnson is a member of the church. He belongs to the Christian Church but often, when home, accompanies her to services at St. Barnabas.

Johnson said nothing at the ceremonies. Mrs. Johnson made the only speech, after presenting to the Fredericksburg Church of St. Barnabas on Cyprus. Barnabas died a martyr's death nearly 2,000 years ago on that Mediterranean island.

Mrs. Johnson had been given the stone on a trip in 1962 when she and her husband, then the vice president, visited Cyprus. It was a gift of Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, now president of Cyprus.

Archbishop Dies In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Over half a million Roman Catholics today mourned the death of their archbishop, Joseph Francis Rummel, a champion of racial equality in the South's largest archdiocese.

Church bells sounded through the city that Rummel, 88, nearly blind and almost deaf in his last years, had served since 1935 — longer than any other prelate.

Churches draped their entrances in black and white.

The German-born Rummel, who integrated parochial schools in 1962 and then excommunicated three segregationists who vigorously opposed his order, died Sunday.

The body will lie in state today and Tuesday at the city's Notre Dame Seminary. Then, with Catholic children lining the streets and saying the Rosary aloud, a cortege will deliver it to the cathedral where it will lie in state until Wednesday's Mass.

Boy Hunter Killed

PONTIAC (AP)—William A. Myers, 11, of Lake Orion, was wounded fatally Saturday while hunting near Lakeville in northern Oakland County.

Red Unity Talks Held In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Communist leaders who came to Moscow to celebrate the 47th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution stayed on today, apparently for Red unity meetings with the new Kremlin leadership.

Official secrecy enveloped the movements of Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and officials from 12 other Communist states but informed sources believed they were discussing problems that have split the Red camp.

Discussion was believed centered on the Kremlin's decision to proceed with ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev's plan for a December meeting of Red representatives from 26 nations to prepare for a world Communist conference.

Khrushchev had called the meeting to set the stage for a showdown in his bitter dispute with the Chinese. The ousted premier's successors apparently hope to turn it into a harmony discussion.

Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin were reported giving a dinner tonight for heads of the visiting Red delegations.

Only brief courtesy talks have been reported officially since

Fight Cancer Films Offered

Bay de Noc Community College students recently saw two films in health education as a service of the education committee of the Delta County Cancer Society.

Mrs. Matt Smith, public education chairman of the local unit, reports showing "The Million Club" and "Is Smoking Worth It?" The first film tells the story of dramatic cures of cancer that has saved one million lives so far, and the second film deals with lung cancer and the smoking habit.

Literature explaining studies and surveys linking lung cancer to the smoking habit were distributed to students to supplement the film session.

Mrs. Smith said all Delta County schools have been supplied with materials on cancer from awareness of the seven danger signals to careers in research, nursing and laboratory technician.

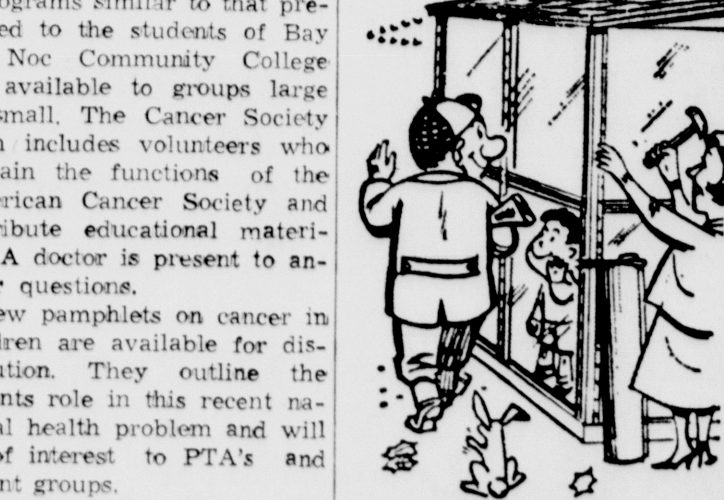

Programs similar to that presented to the students of Bay de Noc Community College are available to groups large or small. The Cancer Society team includes volunteers who explain the functions of the American Cancer Society and distribute educational materials. A doctor is present to answer questions.

New pamphlets on cancer in children are available for distribution. They outline the parents role in this recent national health problem and will be of interest to PTA's and parent groups.

"Educating the public to the need for early detection has been and still is the best weapon in the fight against cancer," said Mrs. Smith.

Persons interested in obtaining a program for their group are asked to telephone her at ST 6-0658.

Smith To Head Dystrophy Drive

Thomas Smith, 900 2nd Ave. S., has been appointed chairman of the 1964 March Against Muscular Dystrophy campaign in Escanaba, announces Gene Mantel, district director, Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc.

The non-profit organization conducts an annual campaign to provide funds for services to local muscular dystrophy patients and for research.

Muscular dystrophy is a crippling disease which progressively turns healthy muscles into fatty tissue and eventually renders the victim helpless. There is no known cause, prevention, or cure.

Two of the 61 muscular dystrophy clinics in the United States are in Wisconsin. One is at the University Hospital in Madison and the other is in Milwaukee. In 1963, Muscular Dystrophy Association was third among the major health agencies in percentage of disbursements applied to research. Since the first organized attack in 1951, $19,469,000 has been expended for research to try to find the answer to this killing disease.

Dickerman Is Promoted To Captial Office

M. B. Dickerman, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station at St. Paul for over 13 years, is transferring to Washington, D.C. to work on the staff of the director of science and education in the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He will represent the Forest Service on the Department's recently established research program development and evaluation staff.

Replacing Dickerman as director of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station will be David B. King, presently assistant to the deputy chief for research, Forest Service, Washington, D.C.

Dickerman has been director of the Lake States Station since 1951. During this time he has planned and directed the development of new research programs in forest genetics, outdoor recreation, timber marketing, watershed management, forest insects and diseases, and forest products and has guided the expansion of timber management and economics research. In May 1963, he received a USDA superior service award "for outstanding achievement in mobilizing the Lake States regional resources for cooperative research . . . and for significant improvement in federal research facilities." The following month he was presented the 1963 merit award for public administration by the Minnesota chapter of the American Society of Public Administration.

Dickerman was born in Connecticut and holds degrees from the University of Connecticut and the University of California where he specialized in forest economics. After joining the Forest Service in 1934 he conducted economics studies at various locations.

King is returning to his native state. He was born in Ely, Minn., and attended school there. Following his graduation from the University of Minnesota School of Forestry, he joined the U.S. Forest Service.

Land Exchanges Up For Action

Two gifts of water frontage in Marquette County have been offered to the Michigan Conservation Department.

The Empire Iron Mining Co. has offered about five acres on the impounded water of Schweitzer Creek five miles south of Ishpeming. The Ely Township School District has offered a platted lot with 365 feet of frontage on Boston Lake, a 60-acre body of water eight miles west of Ishpeming near Diorite.

The Conservation Commission is scheduled to act on both offerings at its November meeting in Lansing next Thursday and Friday.

The Water Resources Commission approved the diversion and impoundment of Schweitzer Creek in 1963 for the purpose of processing low grade iron ore from the Empire Mine at Palmer. Following this approval, a dam was constructed which created a 250-acre lake.

Because of the quality of the water, the impoundment has been stocked with brook trout. The offered parcel has 450 feet of frontage on the shoreline of the impoundment. Conservation Department staff officials have recommended that the commission accept the parcel and dedicate it as a public water access site.

Boston Lake is on the state's priority list of acquisition for Marquette County. Its fishing potential is reported good, with a 15-foot depth of water having a spring-fed source. The department's staff has recommended that the gift be accepted and the parcel dedicated as a public water access site.

In other matters involving Upper Peninsula lands, the commission is expected to act on an application to lease state-owned mineral lands in Iron County for all-minerals, exploration and mining purposes.

Involved are 4,942 acres in the Iron Range State Forest in Mastodon Township.

"It is recommended that the mineral lands be approved for offering as one unit at a public all-minerals lease sale," said Charles Millar, Lansing, chief of lands for the department. "This recommendation follows the general policy of the department to encourage efforts to locate new mineral reserves so that such reserves in this state may be developed to their highest level."

The commission also will be asked to approve a proposed land exchange in the Munuscong State Forest on Drummond Island in Chippewa County. Synthetic Products, Inc., Detroit, is offering to exchange 85.56 acres there for 93.38 acres of state-owned land.

"The exchange will provide for the expansion of an existing sawmill facility near the line between the applicant's ownership and that of the state," Millar said. "The applicant has constructed a modern sawmill on his land, but desires to add a planing mill, an incinerator and storage space. This new industry will be of economic benefit to Drummond Island by furnishing employment and creating a market for stumpage for which no market now exists. The market for stumpage from state-owned lands on the island will provide for a means of improving forest management practices and game habitat on the island."

Drivers who zoom through puddles near curbs rarely make a friendly splash.

More Freeway Jobs Scheduled

LANSING (AP)—Low bids on 12 highway construction projects adding up to $10.2 million have been announced by the State Highway Department.

Major projects included more than six miles of work on I 94 in Macomb County and slightly over a mile of I 75 (Fisher Freeway) in Detroit.

The projects and low bidders included:

—The I 94 project, which does not include paving, but includes four interchanges, three overpasses and four pumphouses, Roy Fruehauf, Drayton Plains, $5,316,762.

—The Fisher Freeway projects, including an interchange, an overpass and a pedestrian overpass, Toebe Construction Co., Lansing, and Weissman Excavating Co., Detroit, $2,915,953.

—1.7 miles of grading, culverts and paving on Middlebelt Road north from I 94 near Inkster, Cooke Contracting Co., Detroit, $712,830.

—2.7 miles of grading, culverts and paving on South Westnedge Road north from Portage, Carl Goodwin & Sons, Allegan, $494,042.

—Two overpasses to carry M 21 over the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks one mile west of Port Huron, Raff & Dexter Construction Co., Lansing, $172,551.

—Three miles of grading, culverts and gravel on Dixboro Road north from M 14 near Ann Arbor, Holloway Construction Co., Sixon, $140,923.

—Almost one mile of grading, culverts, two and four-lane paving on State Road in Cheboygan, Hodgkiss & Douma, Petoskey, $132,845.

—Almost one-half mile of modernization on M 24 from Second Street north to the city limits of Lapeer, including grading, culverts and widening the present two-lane highway to four lanes, A. J. Rehms, Bay City, $118,998.

Fifth Grader Gives Advice To 'Losing Team'

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—"If you are on the losing team, don't act like the world is at an end" is the advice offered political office seekers by a fifth grader here.

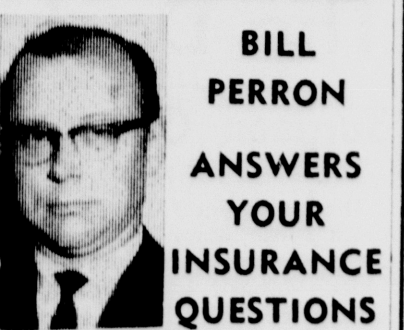

It came in assignments returned to Mrs. Shirley McLarty, who had asked her Washington Elementary School class to try their hand at writing and editorial on the recent elections and the two-party system.

Besides urging a look at the brighter side, Dave Upton, 10, added in his essay: "Support the winner and like him. You will have to live with him until another candidate beats him."

The writer is the son of former Republican State Representative David Upton who was defeated in the primary elections last September in his bid for nomination to the State Senate, 22nd District.

The tradition of Thanksgiving being celebrated on a Thursday began in 1789. At that time, George Washington wrote a presidential proclamation recommending that Thursday, Nov. 26, be recognized as a day of national Thanksgiving.

Bright, Bold Vision

Meetings in January in every county of the Upper Peninsula should immerse the U.P. more actively in tourism promotion than it ever has been before.

Michigan State University is organizing the effort with the assistance of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress, Operation Action-U.P., the Michigan Department of Conservation, the U.S. Forest Service and the Upper Michigan Tourist Association.

MSU, the Area Redevelopment Administration and local sources are putting up cash and services worth more than $150,000 in this project, which will bring to the county meetings a request for local cooperation in a big program designed to:

1. Identify and develop local tourist attractions.
2. Stimulate investment in tourist facilities.

In preparation for the January meetings MSU specialists Uel Blank, Louis Twarzik and Clare Gunn have been studying U.P. tourism. They know more about it than any group concerned with its development has ever known before and their knowledge is current. They know what attracts U.P. tourists and what repulses them; what they look for and what they avoid; and they also know much more than was known before about the Upper Peninsula potential for attraction and how it may be processed through the cash registers of U.P. recreation businesses.

They will lay out their findings in the U.P. county meetings in maps and charts and overlays, in tables and pictures and statistics, in comparisons and projections. It won't be a one-way activity, however; they'll be asking each county to bring forth its offerings to the new recreational image of the Upper Peninsula, and each county's plans for developing them.

The UPCAP Committee's project, which has been farmed out to MSU for management and financing of $85,000, with ARA aid of $50,000 has more resources than any such effort ever in the U.P. It is tackling a project that is huge in scope and which will require many years (the current project ends in August, 1965) and much more in resources than the present project has. Blank has said that the current effort will only scratch the surface, but it will surely be the most significant scratch that has ever been made by one effort in the Upper Peninsula's tourist and resort business.

This is assured by MSU's teamwork, which has already sounded out Detroit investment bankers, state and federal agencies, and other elements of the economy. The present preliminary prospect is that it will take the combined (and sometimes the cooperative) efforts of government and private enterprise to bring off the big development that is sought. It will involve bringing in some capital, but also in stimulating local investment.

To dramatize the possibilities of tourism business as new income for the Upper Peninsula and to excite the area into a bid for this growth, there will be several major demonstration projects in the U.P. Just what form they'll take hasn't been announced yet, but planning for several is underway.

What an exciting way for the U.P. to start the New Year!

Hating Newspapers

At a recent meeting of its directors, the California Newspaper Publishers Association claimed that determined campaigns are currently being waged — by both ultrarightists and far leftists — to coerce newspapers into falling in with their respective party lines.

Some of the intimidating methods the publishers have come up against, as reported in Editor and Publisher magazine, include flooding the letters-to-the-editor department, boycotting or threatening to boycott advertisers, picketing, jamming classified advertising telephone lines, and midnight phone threats of bodily harm to newspaper personnel and their families.

These pressures, the publishers said, are being felt not only in California but all over the country.

This is a tribute to the power of the press in America, but one which it could do without. There is proof enough of the importance of the press in the fact that it and religion are the only organized human endeavors singled out by the Constitution for specific protection.

The Constitution, however, protects only against governmental suppression of freedom of the press. It cannot prevent the destruction of a newspaper's integrity or economic health or the capture of its voice by a well-organized pressure group. Only the faithful support of a broad-based and moderate-minded readership can do that.

In recent years, unfortunately, there seems to have been a growing misunderstanding of the function of a community newspaper, especially during election campaigns, when emotions run high. Charges of newspaper bias against them by defeated candidates of both parties have contributed not a little to a mistrust and cynicism regarding the press on the part of the public.

First of all, a responsible newspaper brings its community the news — as completely, as factually and as accurately as its facilities and employees' abilities permit. But a responsible newspaper also has an opinion — sometimes a courageous one — on the events that make up the news.

It takes an editorial standpoint, on a special page set aside for that purpose. It may also present a number of signed articles, possibly representing widely different shades of belief — even some opposed to the leanings of the newspaper ownership.

Editors today pride themselves on maintaining a wall of separation between fact and commentary.

Far too many readers, however, seem unaware of these two major functions of a newspaper. To them, an editorial or signed column is the same as a news story. If they disagree with the opinion expressed in the column, they may jump to the conclusion that the paper is biased and is deliberately distorting the "news."

Worse, they may be receptive to attempts by pressure groups to undermine a community's confidence in its newspaper or newspapers.

As one of the California publishers said there is a difference between individual criticism of a newspaper and an organized attack on its life.

The first is always justified. It is nothing less than the exercise of free speech by a newspaper reader and is beneficial to both you, the reader, and we, your newspaper.

But the other is a danger not only to the existence of a particular newspaper but to a basic pillar of American freedom.

Job for Tomorrow

Washington Comment

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In this election it was President Lyndon Johnson, not Sen. Barry Goldwater, who was seen by an overwhelming majority of Americans as the Great Conserver.

The President captured many of the stoutest bastions of U. S. conservatism — New England's flinty northern provinces, the broad farm belt, the ruggedly individualistic Mountain West, the small towns, the middle to upper income groups in the burgeoning suburbs, more than half of the eleven Old South states.

This, then, was no victory of the urban-liberal eastern establishment against the outnumbered remainder of the nation. A nearly complete national consensus of 44 states ranged itself behind the President.

Had not five southern states been so badly disaffected over the explosive civil rights issue, Johnson's sweep might well have outdone Franklin D. Roosevelt's of 1936.

When a man wins more votes than any president in history and gains a wider margin than any other, as the President has done, it is difficult to say that he has not been given a shattering mandate. Yet it must, in fairness, be said.

Millions clearly were voting against Goldwater — because he stirred in them deep and unsettled fears.

Hence, Goldwater — put forth by his zealous advocates as the shining knight of the conservatives — lost conservative Republicans and Democrats in incredible numbers.

He was touted from the start as the man who could work wonders for conservative Republican candidates for Congress and lesser offices. In the test, however, he brought this off only in those same Deep South states where he himself managed to triumph.

Across the nation, dozens of Republican congressional candidates — many unmistakably conservative — fell before the Johnson avalanche.

Goldwater and his staunchest followers read conservatism as restoration of older, sounder ways of doing things. But the testimony of countless interviewed citizens indicates that to them this can be disruptively radical. To them it means ripping away much they have and want to keep.

The voters appear to have been voting to hold steady on both the home and foreign fronts.

Goldwater, in assailing so much that has been done, was promising implicitly to produce major change here and abroad.

Goldwater and his supporters contend now, and may argue vigorously for many months, that his bent toward sharp change was overdrawn by his adversaries and the press. He insists he would not change the economy, destroy Social Security, sell TVA, launch rash foreign ventures or touch off nuclear war.

Some of his positions were indeed exaggerated in the heat of battle. But he did say things on all those subjects that gave his critics real ammunition. And, most important his most controversial views were not freakish departures from his general outlook, but natural extensions of it. From 1960 on, he had made himself a sweeping assailant of the status quo.

The majority of American voters in 1964 was repelling his broad attack, however much they might agree with parts of it.

They saw in Lyndon Johnson a man who suggested security and continued well-being. They gave the President no mandate for big new programs, because he specified none. They gave him no proven demonstration of affection.

Having heard and seen Goldwater, having watched the President perform since John Kennedy was assassinated, they turned to Lyndon Johnson in astonishing numbers to pre-serve the world they have.

The Doctor Says:

Surgeon Can Correct Chest

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Q—I am 15 years old. Ever since I was about 1-year-old I have had what is known as pigeon breast. What can I do about it? Will it hinder my participation in sports? Will it make me short of breath?

A—Pigeon breast is a congenital condition in which the breast bone in the center of the chest buckles forward. In severe cases, there may be pressure on the heart and a decrease in the volume of the lungs. This could make you short-winded and hinder your athletic endeavors. A good chest surgeon can correct this condition. This repair operation is highly desirable if the deformity is causing you any trouble.

Q—My 15-year-old daughter is bowlegged and is very self-conscious about it. What can be done for her?

A—This trouble is now prevented in infancy by giving vitamin D in the form of cod liver oil and by moderate daily exposure to sunlight. A few children become bowlegged in spite of adequate cod liver oil. Nonsurgical correction is successful in many younger children, but 15 is a little old for this. If the condition is truly a handicap, the bowed bones

Ann Landers

No More Babies, Needle Decrees

Dear Ann Landers: We have two sons. For almost three years my husband and I have wanted another child but we've had no luck. About a month ago my sister said she'd like to try the needle trick on me to determine whether or not I'd have more children.

She took a threaded needle and rubbed it across my middle finger. Then she dangled the threaded needle over the top of my hand, steadying it between her thumb and index finger until it stood perfectly still. If the needle remained still it meant I would not have any more children. If it moved back and forth it meant a boy. If it moved in circles it meant a girl.

We tried it three times. Twice the needle moved back and forth, meaning I had two boys, which was right. The third time it stood still, indicating I would not have any more children.

This past week six different women tried it on me and the results were the same. I tried it on them and the needle was right every time.

I know this sounds nutty, but the accuracy of these tests is amazing. How do you explain it?—D. L.

Dear D. L.: I won't try. But this I can tell you—if you want another child, just believe in the needle trick. Give away your baby buggy, your crib, the stroller and the diaper pail. Accept the fact you will not have more children. Chances are within a year you'll be pregnant. The frequency with which this has happened is more amazing than the needle trick.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell teen-agers not to marry to get away from home. If home is intolerable advise them to move out when they become of legal age—work their way through college or get a job and support themselves. Getting married to escape from tyrannical parents is always a horrible mistake.

I know whereof I speak. The man I married turned out to be twice as mean as my mother and father put together. I jumped from the frying pan into the fire and I've been frying ever since.

I wish there were a law which would force couples to wait for three months after

Delta's Potato Outlook Bright

Delta County potato farmers have smiles as broad as those worn by deer hunters this week in anticipation of the opener on Saturday.

It's a vintage year in the potato business, at least as far as marketing is concerned. If you've got good spuds this year you are going to be able to make a payment on the mortgage.

Delta County Extension Director Joseph Heirman says that the prices of Russet Burbanks (bakers) and round whites, (including Russet Sebago) at $4.50 per hundred and about $3.75, respectively, are almost double the prices of last year.

The national production of off 6 to 8 per cent and that's enough to push prices up.

Delta's crop and Dickinson's, too, are described as "pretty good," but Houghton County, another leader in U.P. potato production, will record a decline in yield because of early drought.

The state potato industry hasn't been as healthy in years as it is this fall, thanks, say Michigan State University crop specialists, to preparation for quality production as well as to the better market prices.

The state has a potato processing plant at Greenville in Lower Michigan and this is a helpful facility because an increasing part of the harvest goes into processed potato products.

Five Injured In Car Mishaps

Five persons were injured in traffic accidents over the weekend, State Police of the Gladstone Post reported.

Alfred Krouth and his wife Mabel of Perkins were reported in "fair" condition at St. Francis Hospital today with injuries suffered at 12:15 a.m. Sunday when their car hit a utility pole.

Mrs. Krouth suffered multiple facial fractures, a fracture of her right shoulder and a fracture of her left arm. Mr. Krouth suffered a cerebral concussion, facial and possible neck injuries.

Troopers reported that the Krouth car failed to negotiate a curve on Co. Rd. 446, four tenths of a mile west of U.S. 2 and 41 in Brampton Township, went off the roadway and hit a utility pole.

Also injured Sunday were Douglas Konkell, 14, and Gavin Boyer, 15, of Rte. 1, Bark River, and William Debelak, Rte. 1, Rapid River.

Konkell suffered a fractured left leg and Boyer bruises and abrasions when a farm tractor driven by Konkell rolled over into a ditch on Co. Rd. B 24, one mile south of Bark River, police said.

Debelak was reported in "good" condition today at St. Francis Hospital with injuries suffered at 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

State Police said that Debelak lost control of his car on a curve on U.S. 2 and 41, just north of the Escanaba River bridge. The car hit a guard rail near the Pioneer Trail Park entrance and rolled over, police said.

Debelak was ticketed by State Police for violation of the basic speed law and for not having a valid operator's license.

There were no injuries reported from a three-car accident investigated by State Police on Co. Rd. 513, two tenths of a mile south of Co. Rd. 511, Bay de Noc Township.

Troopers said a car driven by Harry Balenger, N. 15th St., Gladstone, collided head-on with a car operated by Ronald Johnson, Rte. 2, Rapid River, then skidded sideways and struck a parked car owned by Ormand Olson of Milwaukee.

Balenger told police that he was blinded by headlights from the Johnson car, and believing it was coming at him, he swung to the right side of the car. Police said that Johnson was backing up on the roadway. He was ticketed for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Death Claims Former Teacher

Miss Sophie J. Stern, 83, former teacher in the Escanaba School System died at 6:30 a.m. today at the family home, 416 S. 10th St., after a short illness.

Miss Stern was born in Escanaba Sept. 12, 1881, and taught for a number of years. Later she worked for the Chicago & North Western in the Division Accounts' office and subsequently was employed in a Minneapolis office. She returned to Escanaba to make her home following her retirement in 1937. She was a member of St. Joseph's Church and of the Third Order of St. Francis. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Stark, Escanaba, and several nieces and nephews.

The body was taken to the Alto Funeral Home where friends may call from 3 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. The Third Order will meet there Tuesday at 7 p.m. to recite the rosary and the parish prayers will be said at 8 p.m.

Funeral services will be held at St. Joseph's Church Wednesday at 11 a.m. Father Jordan Telles, O.F.M., will officiate. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Rock 4-H Club Will Install New Officers

ROCK — The monthly meeting of the Rock 4-H Club will be held Wednesday, Nov. 11 at the Rock Lions club house, starting with recreation at 7 p.m. New officers will be installed.

A boys club will be organized with Donald Seppanen and Ray Lehto as leaders. Larry Bradford, Delta County 4-H Club extension agent will be present to help with the organization. Boys who will have reached their tenth birthday by Sept. 30, 1965 are eligible to join. Projects will be decided when boys and leaders meet Wednesday night.

Lunch will be served after the meeting.

All interested young people and their parents are welcome to the meeting.

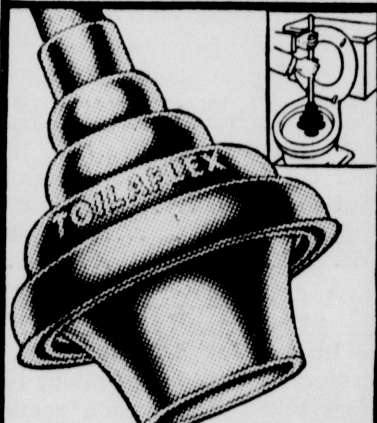

Reports will be heard on the girls knitting and Home Improvement project work.

Mrs. Abti Waak, Mrs. Albert Weldum, Mrs. Lawrence Wilcox, Donald Seppanen and Ray Lehto attended the leader training meeting at Gladstone Friday evening.

Garden Peninsula Kate's Bay Club

The Kate's Bay Home Economics Club met at the Paul Guertin home Thursday night. Mrs. Alpha Thibault and Mrs. Walter DeGroot presented a handicraft lesson on Christmas cards and personalized stationery using pressed flowers, leaves, ferns and other decorative materials in their demonstration. The next meeting will be Nov. 19 with Mrs. Milton Hazen, hostess. Mrs. Anna Lelo of Taylor, Mich., and Mrs. Neal Gauthier were guests at the meeting.

New Districting Of Legislature Up In Court

PORT HURON (AP) — Three federal judges will preside here today at a hearing on a request that Michigan's new legislative apportionment plan be declared illegal.

The petition, brought by three Republican state senators, will be heard by U.S. District Court Judges Clifford O'Sullivan, Stephen Roth and Fred Kaess.

Sens. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, John Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge and Paul Younger of Lansing assert in the petition that the state's new legislative districts are illegal because, they claim, they were deliberately gerrymandered.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Funeral services for Howard E.C. Rogers, former Charlotte postmaster, will be held here Wednesday. Rogers, 73, died Saturday at Ann Arbor Veterans Hospital.

Rogers served as Charlotte postmaster from 1948 until his retirement in 1951.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Four University of Michigan alumni were honored Saturday with awards for achievement in their chosen professions. They were Virginia R. Allan of Wyandotte, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs; Henry W. Balgooyen, executive vice president of American and Foreign Power Co., New York; Joseph A. Livingston, financial editor of The Philadelphia Bulletin, and Austin T. Walden, municipal judge of Atlanta, Ga.

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Dan Bonner has been transferred to Traverse City as district forester by the State Conservation Department from his job as assistant forester in the Au Sable district. He succeeds David Olson, resigned, and will supervise forests on 91,000 acres of state-owned lands in Grand Traverse and Wexford Counties.

Railway Freight Business Booms

By ROGER LANE AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Things are hummin' on the railroad. Heavily laden trains are carrying factory products, coal, lumber, grain, ore and automobiles to mill, plant and market at a rate unmatched since the prosperous mid-1950s.

Wall Street has marked up stock prices to match the recovery of rail earnings from the 15-year low of 1961, and some stocks sell at double their lows of early in the year.

Still, pockets of financial misery persist, especially in the East. The Erie-Lackawanna, Reading, Jersey Central and a few other railroads are mired in the red.

These are mostly lines burdened with short systems and money-losing passenger operations. Freight is a railroad's bread-and-butter.

Over-all railroad earnings are expected by financial analysts and Railway Age, industry weekly, to top $700 million in 1964, hitting an eight-year high.

This estimate allows for added payroll expense from prospective wage settlements with union employees. A charge against the current year of $100 million to $150 million could result.

Gains through mergers, stepped up sales, major equipment innovations, job elimination, automation, better freight car utilization and improved maintenance have contributed to the brightened picture.

Underlying everything else is swelling freight volume generated by 45 consecutive months of an expanding economy.

By the old-time yardstick of carloadings, freight traffic has climbed to a 5½ year high. But carloadings tell only part of the story.

A carload averages 55 tons of freight as against about 50 tons five years ago. This is because jumbo hopper, gondola, flat and box-type freight cars are gradually replacing old boxcars. Also, trains move faster.

So using the more accurate barometer of ton-miles — a ton of revenue freight hauled one mile — today's volume has risen 20 per cent from the June 1959 level, even though carloadings are about on a par.

Clean-Up Sought On Grand River

LANSING (AP) — The Mayor's River Improvement Committee of Lansing plans to study a proposal that all communities along the Grand River Basin be brought into an agency to help clean up the river.

Donald Rutter, a committee member, suggested forming a Grand River Basin Civic Authority of representatives from communities along the river from Jackson to Lake Michigan.

Elroy McPherson Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

Elroy McPherson, 71, of 1608 N. 18th St., died suddenly of a heart attack at his home Sunday at 9:30 p.m.

He was born Nov. 4, 1893, in Lawton, Mich., and had lived in Escanaba 13 years. He was a retired employe of Shepek Dimension Co. He was a member of the United Pentecostal Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Rosemund Solley, two brothers, Levi of Grand Haven and Albert, Boyne City, one sister, Mrs. Florence Kitson, East Jordan, Mich.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home from 4 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. The body will be removed at noon Wednesday to the Pentecostal Church where services will be conducted by the Rev. Miller at 1:30 p.m. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest Cemetery.

Beef Producers Clear Site For Auction Facility

The well is in and 6 acres of the 10-acre site are cleared for construction next spring of the Bay de Noc Beef Producers Association's new livestock auction facility off U. S. 2 two miles east of Rapid River, says Richard Johnston of Ensign, vice president of the association.

A work bee on Saturday with about 25 farmers from Escanaba to Cooks busy at clearing work left the site ready for start of construction on the pole type building with metal roof and walls which will house the auctions of the association starting next year. The auctions, especially the association's annual sale of feeder calves to feed lot operators, have been held at the Escanaba Livestock Auction yard in Wells.

The necessity of putting up the 10-acre site there to accommodate the number of young beef animals handled led directors of the Beef Producers to seek their own facilities. They have leased a 10-acre site in the Hiawatha National Forest from the Forest Service to create their auction shed and livestock pens.

The new shed will have a bleacher section for spectators and bidders that will accommodate about 300.

The association paid $1 a head for the animals handled through the Escanaba Auction and the sale disposed of 1,500 animals in 1964 and about 1,000 this year. The Escanaba yard is owned by Ernest Dunbar and his son, Elton, and has served the association sale for the past 7 years.

The Beef Producers Assn., planning includes possibility of sale of young stock for dairy herd replacements to Midwest farmers who don't want to raise their own, and on expanded activity in their annual sale of young beef stock to feed lots, an enterprise to which Michigan State University livestock specialists have said U. P. grasslands are specially well adapted.

William Jaeger, Watson, is president of the Beef Producers and Roy Dalgord of Fayette is secretary-treasurer.

Stickup Joker Lands In Lockup

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — "This is a stickup. Give me the money," said the young man to the man behind the desk of the Rancho Lanes Bowling Center.

C. C. Brinton, the man behind the desk, chuckled. "Don't laugh. I'm serious," the man said, keeping his right hand in his coat pocket.

Brinton, a part-time employe who also is a Salt Lake City policeman, whipped out his pistol, held his man at bay and called police.

"I was just joking. Put that gun away and give me an alley," the gunman pleaded. The joke was on Robert Vincent Harrell, 22, however. He was booked into city jail for attempted robbery.

"Light Up for DUC," a light bulb sale with proceeds going to Delta United Charities, will be held Tuesday. Orders at $2 can be placed with either radio station WLST or WDBC. City fireman will also maintain a sales booth in the City Hall.

Traffic court summonses have been issued by Escanaba police to Albert L. Dwight, 421 S. 12th St., failing to stop and identify and no operator's license; James Bizeau, 1115 Montana, Gladstone, speeding and improper lane usage; Kenneth C. Botwright, 1122 Stephenson Ave., and Kenneth K. Carlson, Escanaba Rte. 1 both for speeding.

The Flat Rock Parent-Teacher Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the multi-purpose room of the school. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Wallace Cameron, who will show slides of Spain.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will meet at 1:45 p.m. Thursday at Carpenter's Hall to elect and install officers.

Hiawatha Lodge will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Eagles Hall. Hostess committee chairmen will be Mrs. Charlotte Ettenhofer and Mrs. Blanche Hubert.

Legion Marks Veterans' Day

Approximately 70 persons attended the Veterans' Day dinner of Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, at the Legion clubrooms Saturday night.

Speaker of the evening was C. Elmer Olson, who told of the early history of the American Legion in the Peninsula and summed up some of the outstanding projects sponsored in the state and national programs. One of the major items is the child welfare project, under which the Legion has donated $185,000,000 since 1925 for research into children's diseases. Olson also mentioned Legion baseball, which has given many major league ballplayers their start.

A group of barbership singers under the direction of Paul Cowen of Gladstone entertained with a group of songs. Later the Legion assemblage enjoyed group singing with Al Provencher as leader and Mrs. Clinton Groos at the piano. L. A. Danielson was toastmaster of the banquet program.

Two Republicans Lead Contest For New Court

Delta County, which apparently couldn't identify the Republican candidates for District 3 of the new Michigan State Court of Appeals and voted for them while going solidly Democratic for everything else but Republican Governor Romney, had a difficulty which seems statewide.

Latest tabulation of the non-partisan vote in the Nov. 3 election by the Associated Press shows Republicans Fitzgerald and Holbrook and Democrat Burns leading with 1,931 or 97 per cent of the district's 1,997 precincts reported. The district includes all of the 15 counties of the U.P. in a 66 county area that includes most of the state. Three judges will be elected in each of the three districts.

The vote: Fitzgerald, 390,069; Holbrook, 365,536; Burns, 293,668.

Next in order and apparently defeated are Republican Miller 292,350 and Democrats Black 258,911 and Doyle 253,462.

Private Drive Snow Plowing Debated Here

BY CLINT DUNATHAN

The Delta County Road Commission stood in the middle and pretty much alone today with a problem that involves not only the "human" element of keeping private driveways plowed — but the ethics of being party to a violation of state law and jeopardizing the county road's annual three-quarter million dollars in state road funds.

About 40 persons, eight of them members of the Delta County Board of Supervisors, discussed with the Road Commission the problem of snow plowing private driveways — which is illegal under present state statute.

The meeting was the regular meeting of the Road Commission at Bay View. The word got passed around and the county residents interested in having their driveways plowed were on hand and the meeting was moved to a larger room so everyone could stand.

Need Legislation

The County Board of Supervisors representatives present at the meeting were mostly non-committal. Charles Sedenquist of Wells, Board of Supervisors chairman and Harold Gustafson of Ensign, former chairman, both indicated they favored giving drive plowing another year — although they didn't like violating the state law, either.

Rep. Einar Erlandsen of Escanaba, Delta County representative in the state legislature, who had tried way back in 1956 to have the law changed to make driveway plowing legal, said he would do everything he could again and suggested that the people of the county organize to rally support for the change which would legalize use of public drives.

Rep. Erlandsen pointed out that the courts have held that government can be sued for damages. With this immunity gone, local government (like the Road Commission) could be liable for damages in the event persons are injured while drives are being plowed. Even the individual members of the Road Commission might not be immune from suit.

Take A Chance?

The question of who is liable in such cases has yet to be answered by the Supreme Court, he said. Very serious questions are involved. A contract between the Road Commission and the individual driveway owner does not actually free the county from responsibility, he said.

"I just can't stand here and tell the Road Commission to go ahead and plow when I know they might be faced with a suit," he said. "Other counties that are plowing are taking a chance."

Elmer Klasell, chairman of the Road Commission, opened the meeting and invited discussion. The Road Commission may legally use its funds on county roads. It would be illegal to spend it on private drives. "The state regulates the money and makes the rules and we have to follow them. We took a chance for years and then decided to quit violating the law."

Earl Paquin of the three-member Road Commission which is appointed by the County Board of Supervisors, pointed out that the Board of Supervisors went along when it was proposed to discontinue plowing driveways. Hilding Norstrom is the third member of the Commission.

"We represent the people so far as the roads are concerned," he said. "But we do not repre-

Mrs. Anderson, Old Resident Of Ishpeming Dies

Mrs. Signe Anderson, longtime resident of Ishpeming, who has been residing here with her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Haack, 906 7th Ave. S., the past two years, died Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at St. Francis Hospital.

She was born in Florence, Wis., in 1884, and had lived in Ishpeming 50 years. She leaves the one daughter, two sisters and one brother and seven grandchildren. The body was taken to Bjork-Zuelke Funeral Home in Ishpeming. Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m.

up the need to comply with the law in view of the county's lack of immunity from suit.

A 10-ton grader plowing a driveway had mechanical failure and plowed into the living room of a farm home. The farm wife jumped aside and was unhurt.

Karas cited copies of letters addressed by Gov. Romney to Supervisor Gustafson and another Delta County resident, dated Oct. 27, 1964, advising them that Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas Chapekis was correct that the Road Commission does not have legal authority to plow private driveways. Gustafson said that he had not received the letter.

The Road Commission continued its session into this afternoon.

Bureau Suggests Saving Up Some Good Farm Land

By PHIL BROWN
Associated Press Writer
LANSING (AP) — With population advancing rapidly, it may be time to start setting aside good farm land for the future before cities and suburbs gobble it up, a Farm Bureau official suggests.

The emphasis now is on taking land out of production to cut down on farm surpluses.

But, Dan Reed of the Farm Bureau says, "over the past 20 years, our farm output has increased 3 per cent less than the increase of the nation's population."

He told the recent Michigan Natural Resources Conference, "it may well be that at some point in the future our land needs for food and fiber may require the restoration of some of our more marginal acres to agricultural production."

He added: "Michigan has millions of acres of land ideally suited for urban and industrial development but not so well suited to producing the food and fiber needs of our future population."

Fertile Acres Disappear
"Can we afford not to give thought to this problem before the fertile acres of southern Michigan, for instance, are taken over for urban or suburban development?"

What determines what land is used for what purposes now?

Reed says it's who can pay the price and the property taxes. "This consensus is," he says, "that population growth will drive prices up, with demand for more space for housing, schools, shopping centers, etc., edging into the rural fringe."

"Good land will be scarce in perhaps 10 to 20 years," he adds. "Higher land prices, of course, make it more difficult for small farmers with limited capital and for beginning farmers to get into agriculture and to increase the size of their operations."

Turning to the tax aspect, Reed says, "studies show farmers with incomes below the average level pay two to three times more in property taxes than do most Michigan citizens."

It may be time to make greater use of land planning and zoning to ensure that when population demands it, additional farm land will be available to produce food, Reed suggests.

People Eating Less

"In rapidly developing suburban areas, land values price agriculture out of the market," he says. "Even in areas which are not developing rapidly but which have long range potential development possibilities, tax rates have become prohibitive for continued use of the land in agriculture."

People have the impression that agricultural output is racing along because of three developments, mainly in the early 1940s, Reed says.

He lists these as:
1. When agriculture shifted from horse power to tractor power, this released the land formerly used to produce horse and mules and the oats and hay to feed them. Some 70-80 million acres of such land became available to produce food for humans.

2. With hybrid corn leading the way, hybridization of varieties has had a tremendous impact on production records.

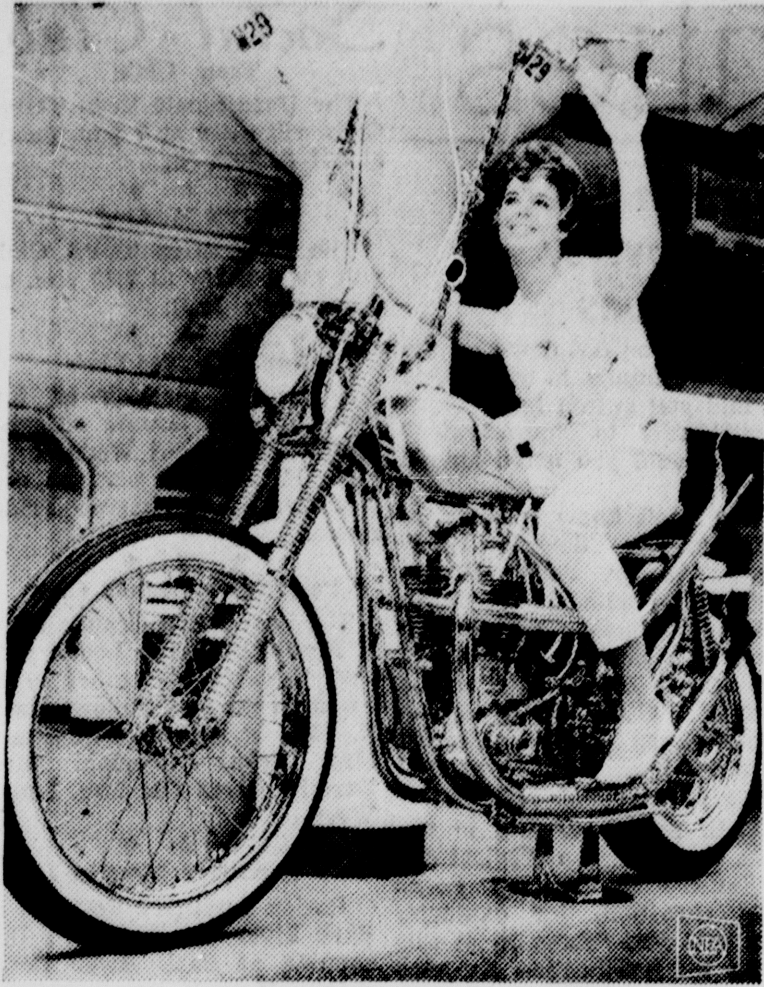

3. People are eating less food because changing demands for human physical labor have changed eating patterns.

Actually, Reed says, over the last 50 years "agricultural output has barely kept pace with population growth."

"These facts should be known by those who spread the idea that the United States could feed the world's hungry with its surpluses," Reed says.

"And with world population growing at a rate of 50 million a year, we have the equivalent of a new nation the size of the United States appearing every four years, with no farms or land to feed it," he says.

GOOD AS GOLD—To ride a customized motorcycle (even if it isn't going anywhere) is a big thrill for some persons, yet Sue Petersen of Glenview, Ill., got an even bigger thrill. Winter's Start Increases Colds

The American Medical Association's new pamphlet on the common cold reports that Old King Cold costs the United States $5 billion annually in lost wages, lost production and medical expenses. More than 150 million days per year are lost from our work force. More than 20 million people suffer from colds on any given wintry day. The common cold is the most costly ailment in our country, as well as in most other countries.

The common cold is defined as an acute upper respiratory tract inflammation that ordinarily is communicable and is caused by viruses. But this definition has little meaning since the popular use of the word "cold" includes everything from a minor sniffle and a nasal obstruction to a disabling illness similar to influenza.

Blamed On Viruses

A number of viruses produce the symptoms we call a cold, possibly as many as a hundred. The true cold is an infection with one or more viruses.

Current research seems to indicate that colds are harder to catch than has been thought. In controlled studies, close contact for several hours was necessary before cross infection occurred. Fresh colds appear to be more contagious than older ones, and children's colds have been shown to be more contagious than those of adults. Even apparently well persons may harbor cold viruses and may infect others.

Low temperatures and inclement weather, in themselves, probably have little to do with precipitating colds. Dampness and chill have been suspected of causing colds, but experimental evidence now indicates that they are probably only triggering factors. The relative humidity of the air may be important, however.

There is a sharp rise in incidence of colds at the time the winter heating season begins. The lowered humidity in heated rooms causes the dry nose and throat which contributes to susceptibility to infection. The nose, throat and lungs work better when the air that is breathed has a relative humidity of about 45 per cent. Dry mucous membranes cannot clean themselves by action of their cilia, the hairlike structures that move mucus upward out of the respiratory tract. As a result they become more vulnerable to invasion by cold viruses.

No Cure Yet

No specific treatment, so far available, is effective against the cold virus. Any treatment must be directed toward relief of the symptoms and prevention of complications. The wonder drugs — antibiotics and sulfa — have no effect on viruses. They should be used only under medical supervision for the control of complicating bacterial infections. Bed rest, or at least inactivity in a controlled environment, is helpful. Your doctor may suggest mild medication to help allay the discomfort.

Those who have repeated colds should investigate the possibility of allergies being mistaken for colds. Current cold vaccines are of little value, since so many viruses cause colds and effective vaccines have been developed for so few of the viruses producing cold symptoms.

Solid evidence is lacking to demonstrate that "natural" foods, taking vitamin supplements, special types of clothing, or forced exposure to sunlight and fresh air have any effect on susceptibility to colds.

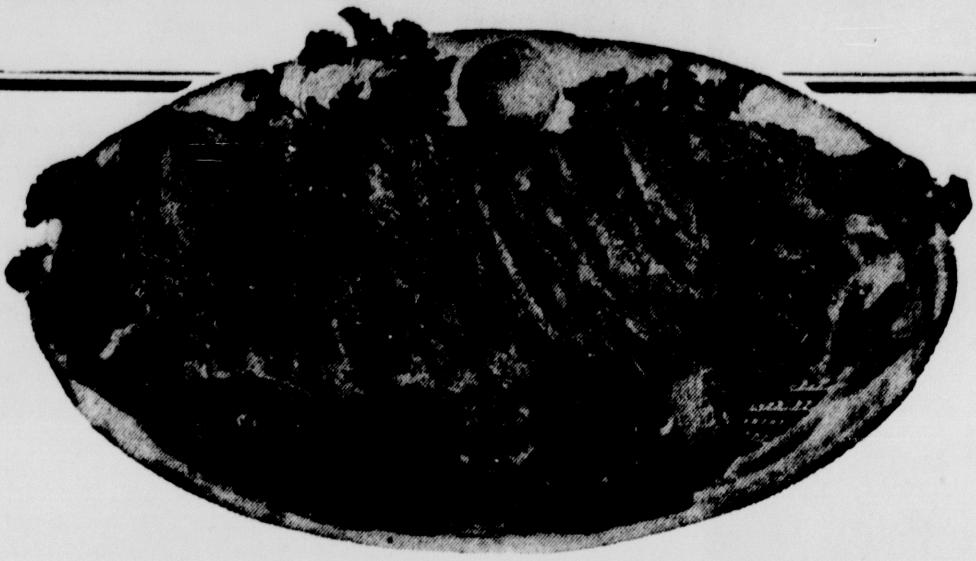

Colds are spread by intimate personal contact. A person with a cold should practice good contagion preventing techniques. Coughs and sneezes should be covered. Frequent hand washing is helpful. The victim of a cold should have his own drinking glass, towels and other personal items. Above all, he should stay away from other people.

So far medical science has not been able to break through the guard of Old King Cold. All that can be hoped for is symptomatic treatment to make one feel better until the cold goes away and as much care as possible to prevent spread to others.

Emmet County Agent Awarded Study Grant

EAST LANSING — Emmet Reinbold, Emmet County home economics agent for the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, has been named recipient of a $100 study grant by the National Home Demonstration Agents' Association.

Presentation of the grant — called the Florence Hall award — will be made at NHDAA's annual meeting in Washington, D.C., Nov. 15-19. Such awards are made annually to eight home agents in recognition of outstanding work in the adult home economics-family living extension program.

Mrs. Reinbold's award honors her accomplishments in the area of physical and mental health. The Emmet County health program began with a health committee organized in 1959 to study the specific situation in the county. A series of health programs were planned and conducted in consecutive years: "Better Nutrition for the Family," "Helping Your Heart," "Pathways to Better Understanding," and "Cancer Education."

Through Mrs. Reinbold's leadership, more than 5,000 women took part in cancer tests. The lives of 16 women were saved as a result of their participation in this program.

A graduate of Western Michigan University, Mrs. Reinbold has been Emmet County home agent since 1944.

She is a 1957 recipient of the NHDAA Distinguished Service Award for the state of Michigan.

Women's Activities

Mature woman (left) uses light eyebrow pencil and eye make-up when wearing glasses. This is co-ordinated with her frames of a definite, not wishy-washy color. The lass with dark frames (center) makes the most of her eyes with black eye liner outlining the upper lid. Light eye shadow is blended above the liner and the lashes darkened with cream mascara. The blonde (right) chooses frames to follow her sleekly brushed, darkened brows. She applies a heavy liner over the entire lid and a fine line at the inner eyelid; dark mascara on the lashes.

Glasses Call For Deft Touch

By ALICIA HART
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The woman who wears glasses has come of age. This is fortunate since there are more than 40 million women wearing glasses. Once worn furtively or kept hidden while their owners walked about blindly, glasses are fashion focal points. Good frame designing and the careful use of co-ordinated eye make-up now make many women look at their glassless friends as being out-of-step with the style trend.

Girls who wear glasses, however, must choose both their frames and their eye make-up with care. Gear the cosmetics to the style and color of your eyeglass frames. If you have more than one pair, consider this when building your eye make-up kit.

How you use the make-up is important. Beauty experts at Jacqueline Cochran point out that the eye liners must be finely drawn on upper lids with great care. Heavy, tortoise-shell frames call for a finer, lighter liner.

Also use eye shadow but go easy on the amount since lenses often intensify colors.

Include sparkled frames in your glasses wardrobe for late-day use. With these try a pale, soft shadow in the new brown tones. Blend the shadow up and out at the corners of the eye.

If you have short lashes, the Cochran specialists recommend a cream mascara to darken and thicken your lashes. This also makes them look longer. Take care when wearing false eyelashes with your glasses. These should be clipped so they are not too long. Again the magnification by the lenses tends to play funny tricks. The lashes should always sweep clean of the lens. Decisions, decisions face the eyeglass wearer when shopping for new frames. There are styles to suit all six basic face types — oval, round, square, diamond, triangle and inverted triangle. Try on frames until you are satisfied with your appearance.

But it is not always necessary to key the frame shape to your face shape. Beauty experts say you can achieve smashing effects by wearing the unexpected.

If you have a postage stamp small face, try large dark frames. These will emphasize the delicate bone structure. Stars like Marlene Dietrich often lighten the severe chic of a trim black suit or dress with pixie - pointed emerald frames.

The sky's the limit, as long as you remember to co-ordinate your eyeglass frames with your eye make-up. Lack of make up can give you a washed out look.

Fats In Diet Controversy Continues

Should you cut down on the daily fat intake in your diet? Should you switch from "saturated" fats to "unsaturated" fats? Should you avoid animal fats?

You don't know because, as yet, science doesn't really know. As Dr. Portia Morris, nutritionist with the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, points out, the effects of the fats in our diet is a controversial topic—controversial because present data are interpreted in various ways by qualified scientists.

With regard to fats in the diet, the American Medical Association's Council on Foods and Nutrition, for example, has said that "there is, at this time, no justification for recommendations of dietary changes to the general public."

On the other hand, the American Medical Association's Council on Foods and Nutrition, for example, has said that "there is, at this time, no justification for recommendations of dietary changes to the general public."

On the other hand, the American Heart Association recently released a statement advising the public to reduce fat consumption as a possible means of decreasing the risk of heart attacks and strokes.

"AHA's recommendations are aimed at lowering blood levels of cholesterol in the belief that reduction in blood cholesterol may lessen the development or extension of atherosclerosis and hence the risk of heart attacks or strokes," says Dr. Morris.

Other Factors

The nutritionist notes, however, that a long list of investigators have shown that cholesterol level is only one factor in heart disease. Other factors include heredity, overweight, nervous tension, lack of exercise, and even excessive coffee. One study by Dr. Frederick Stare of Harvard suggests that added caloric intake—even if it consists of higher consumption of milk and butterfat—is not harmful if it is accompanied by added exercise to balance the increased calories.

A University of Iowa study straces the amount and kind of fat consumed by Americans over the last 70 years. Based on U.S. Department of Agriculture reports of the retail food market, the study attempts to determine whether or not the increase of heart disease in the last 60 years correlates with changes in fat consumption in the U.S.

Increase In Fats

According to Dr. Morris, the study indicates that Americans are consuming fewer calories but that the amount of fats in the diet have increased. This means there's been a significant increase in the proportion of calories coming from fat. What's more, this has included an increase in the proportion of unsaturated fats in the American diet.

"This, taken together with our increase in heart disease, does not seem to support the assumption that our diet should be altered in the direction of including more unsaturated fatty acids," comments Dr. Morris.

Since proof that "poly-unsaturated" fats are effective in preventing heart disease is lacking, the Federal Food and Drug Administration has declared that legal action will be taken if manufacturers continue to claim that certain vegetable oil products are effective in treating or preventing heart or artery disease.

"Reducing the total fat in your diet and changing from predominantly saturated fats to unsaturated fats would probably not be harmful. It might even be helpful," says Dr. Morris. "But certainly, there is as much or more evidence that avoiding obesity and stress as well as limiting smoking are equally important in preventing heart disease."

Old Timer Sees Conservation At Work 1964 Style

By LEE SMITS

An inside view of Conservation Department operations was a refresher course for an old-timer who vividly recalls the transition from the political spoils system to a pioneering nonpartisan commission form of administration; who has seen the department expand into a multi-million-dollar annual business. Yet, remembering that it was during the old regime under Director John Baird, a rural politician of great shrewdness, that P. S. Lovejoy was brought into the department and encouraged to launch basic research that eventually caused Michigan's department to be regarded as a model for the nation.

A region meeting was held at the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station at Shingleton to make ready for deer checking, draft beaver and other trapping recommendations and discuss the latest die-off of waterfowl on Lake Michigan. Bill Laycock, game manager for Region 1, the Upper Peninsula, presided. Every minute of the time was devoted to business at hand, with none of the con-fabulation that usually goes on at conferences, committee meetings and similar gatherings.

By far the most dramatic matter under discussion was the die-off of loons on Lake Michigan. Conservative estimates, based on counts of dead loons along the beaches on the north shore, indicate that 5,000-10,000 loons have perished. Loons are inclined to migrate in pairs, or in family groups of three or four, and the destruction of 5,000 loons raises the question: How many are there left of all the loons using the Great Lakes flyway?

Lloyd Schemenaur, district game biologist stationed at Newberry, had detailed reports, obtained by walking the beaches after spotting from a plane had revealed areas where dead loons had accumulated. There was a heavy die-off of loons last year, also a heavy die-off of gulls, at various places along Lake Michigan.

Dr. Dale Fay, the department's game pathologist, said that tests had shown that a type of botulism poisoning was responsible for the die-offs. Audubon Society observers had at first blamed pesticides, draining into the lake from orchards. However, the latest die-off is a considerable distance from any extensive orchards.

Dr. Fay was called on to give Region 1 field men detailed instructions in the aging of deer by tooth development. The field men, who will man checking stations during the deer season, have taken the instructions before. They know what to look for, but they all paid close attention to Dr. Fay's talk, illustrated with color slides of deer jaw-bones.

It would be easy information to forget; the precise stages indicated by the replacement of infant teeth, and then progressive wear on pre-molars, molars and incisors as a deer matures.

The system has been tested for some years, with jaw-bones from deer of known ages, including deer that had been trapped and tagged as fawns. A deer's age within a range of six months can be determined pretty accurately by the teeth.

Counting, weighing and aging deer at check stations is a basic requirement of deer management, and most hunters are eager to cooperate.

The lesson concluded with everyone examining an assortment of jaw-bones spread out on a big table.

I learned, by the way, that the oldest deer on record in Region 1 was a doe, 15 years old, killed on a highway. She was due to have a single fawn the following spring.

Antler measurements are also taken at the checking stations. Antler size, number of points, is not an accurate age index, but it does indicate something of the deer's condition and forage available in the area. Many years ago it was commonly believed that the biggest racks in the Upper Peninsula were found on deer from country where there were outcroppings of limestone. One such area lies between the Sag line and Lake Michigan, south of Gould City.

Former Mayor Of Traverse City Killed By Fumes

TRaverse CITY (AP) — Funeral services for John C. C. Minnema, former state senator and mayor of Traverse City, will be held here Tuesday at Grace Episcopal Church. Minnema, 71, was found dead in his home here Saturday. State police said he apparently died of asphyxiation.

Troopers said carbon monoxide fumes backed into the basement of Minnema's house from a chimney and circulated to other rooms through furnace vents.

Minnema, who operated a music shop here, was a former member of the National Cherry Festival board. As a senator, he served the old 27th District from 1955 through 1960.

NAILS DOWN CAREER—Mrs. Paul Reece, 31-year-old mother of six, is the best roofer in Atlanta, Ga., according to a building contractor who has employed her for three years. Mrs. Reece had to become the breadwinner after husband became incapacitated. "I had to feed my children," she said, "and if I had gone to work in a bank or a department store, I wouldn't have made enough money."

Russia Adopts Private Farming

MOSCOW (AP) — Reversing a Khrushchev policy, the Kremlin's new leaders have announced plans to encourage private farming. The move is expected to increase the Soviet Union's hard-pressed agricultural output.

Under Khrushchev, farm policy emphasis was on state ownership while private plots were reduced and limitations placed on private ownership of livestock.

"In recent years unwarranted restrictions were permitted in this area although the economic conditions were not yet ripe," Leonid I. Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, said Friday.

"These restrictions have now been eliminated," he said. "It would be incorrect to neglect the possibilities of the private farming plots of collective farmers, workers and employees for the satisfaction of their needs."

Brezhnev, who replaced Khrushchev as head of the party, announced the important policy shift in a speech at the Kremlin Hall of Palaces on the eve of the Bolshevik Revolution's 47th anniversary.

The decision was expected to

Two Composers Write For State's 150th Birthday

ANN ARBOR (AP) — American composers Roger Sessions and Ross Lee Finney have been chosen for commissions to write musical works to celebrate the University of Michigan's 150th anniversary in 1967.

Sessions, now on the faculty of Princeton University, was asked to compose an orchestral work, possibly a concerto, which would be performed by a major orchestra at U-M in the fall of 1967.

Finney, composer in residence at U-M, is to write a work for symphony orchestra and large chorus which will receive its premiere at the school's 1967 May Festival.

win warm approval among the nation's large peasant population and relieve shortages of potatoes, eggs, milk, meat and vegetables in the cities.

Private plots in the Soviet Union account for only 3 per cent of cultivated land but supply about 33 per cent of the gross output. High productivity of the plots compared to the lower yield of the state-operated farms has been a source of embarrassment to Soviet leadership, whose long-range goal is a collective-farm economy.

Road Barrier Cuts Gas Sales

LANSING (AP)—Claude Miller says his gasoline station is losing customers because of a barrier the state set up beside his pumps—and the state says it would lose $500,000 if the barrier was not there.

The barrier blocks access to one side of the pump where Miller's station in Lansing.

Any cars receiving service on that side of the pump would be on the state-owned right-of-way for M99, said Howard E. Hill, managing director of the State Highway Department.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads will not approve projects, and funds for them, unless rights of way are not used commercially, Hill said.

Meanwhile, Miller says, since cars can pull up to only one side of the pumps, sometimes a line forms and the end cars often back out and go on to another station rather than wait.

Miller said cars had been using both sides of the pumps for 29 years—until the state put up the barriers Monday.

Miller says he was warned before the street construction began in 1962 that he would have to rearrange his service drive. But he said the highway department was supposed to put in another driveway.

When it didn't, he said, "I thought they were going to let me use that property."

Here are three kinds of tigers. We sell two.
(Have you priced a tiger lately?)

The quick ones are ours. The agile ones. That's a Pontiac Le Mans, top left. Fierce. You can get it with 250 hp like most people. Or 260 hp like some. That's a Pontiac GTO, above. Ferocious. Comes complete with 335-hp Trophy V-8. Bucket seats. Hurst floor shifter. Dual exhausts. Heavy-duty springs. Redline tires. Even a real walnut dash. The whole package. Lithe. Lean. Nimble. That other tiger? A puzzled cat. He checked out a "sporty" kind of car, learned it doesn't come with fangs at that stripped-down price. You look around. You'll see.

Mrs. T. J. Nemetz

Joan Creighton Bride Of Theodore Nemetz

In a 7:30 p.m., double-ring ceremony Saturday at 7:30 p.m., in Zion Lutheran Church, Joan Creighton became the bride of Theodore Joseph Nemetz.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Creighton, 215 Arbutus Ave., and her husband is the son of Mrs. Louise Nemetz and the late Joseph Nemetz of 1703 Taylor Ave., St. Paul.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James A. Almquist of No. Emmanuel Lutheran Church in St. Paul and the Rev. Ingmar Levin of Zion Lutheran church.

The Attendants

Joyce Ann Fiegel of St. Paul, roommate of the bride, was maid of honor, and Karen Ann Creighton, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid. The bride's brother, Jack L. Creighton, was best man and David Setterlund, groomsmen. Patti Sue DeSautel was flower girl and John Creighton, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Herbert K. Peterson sang two selections with Mrs. Harry Ahlstrom accompanying during the service. Mrs. Ahlstrom also was organist for the service.

The bride was attired in a white peau de soie satin, floor-length sheath with finger-point sleeves, rounded neckline, appliques of lace and seed pearls on the bodice and the front of the skirt. It had a cathedral, bustled train fastened at the waist.

Her 3-tier elbow length veil was caught to a 4-inch crown of pearls and crystals. Pearl earrings were her only jewelry. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Reception

Her attendants were identically-fashioned gowns, with the maid of honor in a green floor-length brocade satin with elbow-length sleeves and the bridesmaid in gold. Both carried Italian reed baskets of fall assorted mums. Their headpieces were circles an inch in height with nose-length veiling and a small cabbage rose in the center of the band.

The flower girl wore a white brocade satin with a headpiece matching the attendants and carried a small basket of fall cooled mums and petals.

A reception was held in Augustana hall afterwards. Mrs. Jack Creighton, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Ernest Preuss presided at the coffee service and the wedding cake was cut by Doris Mohan, of St. Paul, roommate of the bride and Mrs. Floyd Baker, also of St. Paul. Mrs. Nancy Cheney presided at the guest book and Mrs. David Setterlund, cousin of the bride, at the punch bowl.

Jobs Daughters Will Initiate New Members

Jobs Daughters will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 10 to initiate new members, and will present exemplification of epochs. A social hour will follow.

Serving on the mother's committee in charge are Mrs. Norman Jahn, chairman, Mrs. Ray Hulla, Mrs. Milo Jones and Mrs. Richard Larson. All members and parents and members of the Order of Eastern Star and Masonic Lodge are invited.

Bethel 69 this week will also have a special meeting at 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 12 for a school of inspection conducted by Mrs. Dwane Snail of Ishpeming, first messenger of the grand guardian council.

Newest Store Opens Dec. 1

An opening date of Dec. 1 has been set for the new grocery store being constructed on the old city hall site, River and N. Cedar, Gib Norden, who formerly managed the Red Owl store in Escanaba will be its owner-manager.

The independent supermarket will be called "Norden's Foodland" and will employ 15 to 20 persons.

The building is 104 by 51½ feet of brick and concrete construction, and will be completely self-service. Forty feet of self service meats, and 36 feet each for self-service produce frozen foods are included.

A complete bakery will also be provided, with bulk home-style baking from Ken's Bakery, Manistique.

Norden, who is coming from Ironwood, where he managed a Red Owl store, has worked 17 years for Red Owl foods. He also managed stores in Algoma and Merrill, Wis. He is married to the former Elaine Miller of Gladstone. The couple has four children, Debbie, 8, David 5, Diane 2 and Dale, 7 months.

The family will live at 845 Garden Ave. Norden has purchased the former Arvid Carlson home.

The assistant manager will be John LaCombe, formerly of Escanaba, coming from Cheyenne, Wyo., where he has been an assistant manager. He will come with his wife and their 3-month-old daughter in mid-November.

The store will purchase from Northland Associates in Norway, which serves 600 U.P. accounts and has 150 members purchasing wholesale.

Wings Stretch Winning String

DETROIT (AP)—Norm Ullman always has been a handy man to have around.

And the veteran Detroit Red Wings center has been making his importance felt even more this year with four winning goals in his team's seven victories.

He got the eventual winner again Sunday night as the Red Wings nipped Montreal 2-1.

The triumph stretched the Red Wings' winning streak to eight games—seven wins and a tie—and gave them a three-point lead in the standings.

Boston held on for a 3-2 triumph over Chicago in the only other National Hockey League game played Sunday.

The Red Wings, who have played only 10 games, compared to 11 for four other teams and a dozen for Boston, now play seven of their next eight games on the road.

"That was a dandy hockey game," a smiling Coach Sid Abel said.

The Red Wings scored both of their goals in the first period, Parker MacDonald getting the first one at 8:24 on a power play, and Ullman netting his with a little more than five minutes remaining.

Wolverine Fans Smelling Roses; Coaches Leary

ANN ARBOR (AP)—There may be a few students and Michigan alumni who are already making plans for the holidays which include watching Michigan play in the Rose Bowl.

But the players and members of the coaching staff take a more realistic view and realize that while the smell of roses may be a bit stronger, there are a few thorns remaining before the season is over.

Michigan's 21-6 victory over Illinois last Saturday, coupled with Michigan State's 21-7 triumph over previously unbeaten Purdue, did make the picture a little brighter for the Wolverines.

But those thorns, though few, could be major stumbling blocks.

In the first place, Michigan must win its last two games—against Iowa and Ohio State—on the road.

And, someone else has to defeat Purdue, or at least hold the Boilermakers to a tie.

The MSU-Purdue clash drew almost as many cheers as the Michigan-Illinois clash as a number of fans listened to the game at East Lansing while the game before them.

Penn State's triumphing of Ohio State also gave the fans something to think about. The Big Ten leaders are not invincible after all.

Michigan's victory over the Illini, their sixth in a row in the series and fifth straight in which Bump Elliott has defeated brother Pete, did not come easy.

A combination of Illinois ball control tactics and a stubborn defense prevented Michigan from gaining a first down in the first quarter.

But Frank Nunley picked off a pass by Illinois quarterback Fred Custardo near the end of the first quarter and returned it eight yards to the Illini 35.

Carl Ward scored from 15 yards out on the fifth play of the second quarter.

A little more than two minutes later, Custardo and Oob Trumpy clicked on a 50-yard scoring pass play. But Custardo missed on the extra point try and the Wolverines still led by a point.

Bump Elliott felt the missed extra point was the turning point of the game.

Later, Bob Timberlake passed 24 yards to Jim Detweiler for the second Michigan touchdown.

Resurging Packers Blast Lions; Schmidt Through

By The Associated Press
"Sometimes you just keep trying to get better vision, and you take a step and there it is—a wide-open field ahead."

Quarterback Bart Starr of Green Bay was talking about his rare running which helped the Packers to a 30-7 victory over Detroit Sunday.

But Starr could just as easily have been referring to what the Packers' triumph might have given the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League's Western Conference—a wide-open field ahead.

The Colts crushed the defending champion Chicago Bears 40-24 for their eighth straight victory and opened up a 2½-game lead over the Lions and the Los Angeles Rams.

The Packers' latest victory enabled them to put together their first two-game winning streak of the season.

Starr's running, an unusual sight, had something to do with the triumph. The veteran passer picked apart the league's toughest line for 40 yards in three carries. Two of those dashes helped Green Bay to a touchdown the first time it had the ball.

Asked about his running, Starr—not yet about to challenge Jimmy Brown—explained:

"When they put that much pressure on you, you have to run. I was scared to death. We're not out there to run, but those things happen."

In other games, Cleveland dumped Washington 34-24, St. Louis outlasted Pittsburgh 34-30, Dallas dumped New York 31-21,

Los Angeles got by Philadelphia 20-10 and Minnesota bounced San Francisco 24-7.

The Colts, who mauled the Bears 52-0 earlier in the season, tallied 16 points before Chicago scored. Three field goals by Lou Michaels followed a two-yard touchdown smash by Lenny Moore. That score gave Moore an NFL record of 12 consecutive games in which he has scored a touchdown.

Cleveland's Brown recorded his 100th touchdown and passed for another as the Browns maintained their two-game lead in the Eastern Conference. Sonny Jurgensen tossed three scoring passes for Washington, two to Bobby Mitchell.

Los Angeles moved into a second-place tie with the Lions in the west by holding Philadelphia to one touchdown—King Hill's 24-yard pass to Ollie Matson. Les Josephson set up the Rams' first score with a 75-yard run to the Eagle 11.

Schmidt To Quit

GREEN BAY (AP)—Veteran Detroit Lions linebacker Joe Schmidt said Sunday he was "hanging up my shoes for good," after suffering a dislocated shoulder in the 30-7 defeat by Green Bay.

"Three times (shoulder injuries) is enough for me," Schmidt told a reporter as the team waited at a Milwaukee airport for the fog to lift.

"Even if I get lucky and am able to play again this season, that will be it," Schmidt concluded.

Schmidt wasn't the only Detroit casualty as the Lions limped home with almost no hopes of ever catching the Baltimore Colts in the battle for the championship and faced with a rugged schedule ahead.

Darris McCord injured a knee, Alex Karras suffered an ankle injury—after overcoming a groin injury, Gary Lowe has a leg injury, Bruce Maher a muscle pull and Bobby Thompson bruised ribs.

And quarterback Milt Plum

still has trouble with his elbow. Coach George Wilson said the Packers "reached their peak and we met them."

After the Packers drove for a touchdown with the opening kickoff, the Lions tried to catch them napping on Detroit's first play from scrimmage. With the ball on the Detroit 31, Milt Plum just overshot Pat Studstill with a pass at the Green Bay 30.

"If we had hit on that first play, it would have been a different ball game," Wilson said. Green Bay's Jim Taylor scored the first two touchdowns, climaxing the opening drive with a one-yard plunge, and romping 84 yards minutes later.

Miss Wright Breaks Record

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—"I can quit happy now," said Mickey Wright, the blonde queen of women's golf, when she shot a record 62 for 18 holes on the way to winning first money in the Tall City Open Tournament.

She didn't mean she was going to quit. She has some burning ambitions yet unfilled, like setting a record stroke average of 72.00. In fact, she went to San Antonio today to play in the Civitan Open starting Thursday.

Miss Wright was in pursuit of the stroke record Sunday when she shot a 207 for 54 holes, tied Sherry Wheeler for first place, and won a sudden death playoff and first money of $1,350.

Miss Wright bettered the women's record for 18 holes set by Patty Berg at Richmond, Calif., in 1952. Ruth Jessen had a matching 64 in last year's Dallas Civitan Open.

Miss Wright, who plays out of Dallas, ran her winnings for the year to 10 tournaments and $26,365. She is only three tournaments and $5,235 away from the record of 13 victories and $31,600 won last year when she also set a stroke average of 72.81.

The blonde bettered by four strokes the best record ever shot on the 6,070-yard Hogan Park Municipal Course. That was by a man, Pearl Ward, assistant pro at the course, two years ago.

Spartan Spoiler Role Continues This Weekend

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State, growing in power and polish with every game, has pulled one startling upset and now faces an even greater challenge.

The Spartans played the spoiler by dumping Purdue 21-7 last Saturday. The next opponent is unbeaten Notre Dame, still considered one of the nation's football greats although the Irish had a surprisingly tough time before squeezing past Pittsburgh 17-15.

The MSU win over Purdue reshuffled the Big Ten standings and put Michigan right back into the conference title race.

It wasn't any help to Purdue that Ohio State also suffered a stunning upset since Penn State, the 27-0 victor over the Buckeyes, is a nonconference outfit.

Michigan State had one of its best afternoons offensively, going for 331 yards rushing.

Senior halfback Dick Gordon again was the MSU star with his 145 yard net. It was the third straight time Gordon has gone over the 100-yard mark.

It wasn't all a one-man show, however, as Gordon got good assists from Clint Jones with 56 yards and Eddie Cotton with 48 yards rushing. Quarterback Steve Juday also was hitting his receivers well, completing 8 of 10 pass tries for 71 yards.

Purdue jumped into an early 7-0 lead and for a while it looked as if the Boilermakers were ready for a romp.

But Steve bounced back after a Purdue punt was blocked by a leaping charge by sophomore Charlie Thornhill. Linesman Harold Lucas got the bounding ball and only had to go three yards for a touchdown.

The Spartans continued to show themselves fine opportunists. A pass interference call helped them to the three and Jones went in for the remaining yardage.

The final MSU score came on old-fashioned, grind-it-out-football with Juday passing the last 15 yards to Jones.

This all added up to a fine show for the crowd of 75,433 in Spartan Stadium. It was the last home game of the season and the win gave MSU a 3-2 conference mark. The best Michigan State can hope to do in the Big Ten this fall, however, is to tie for second.

Education Is Key To Civil Rights, Hannah Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The only solution to the civil rights problem lies in much better education for Negro youth," President John A. Hannah of Michigan State University said Sunday.

"We must raise a whole new generation of Negroes who have had an opportunity for a decent education all the way from kindergarten through our universities," Hannah said. "However, nowhere in our society do we have people giving this problem the attention it deserves."

Hannah, who has been chairman of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights since its inception told a news conference:

"There is nothing more important in America in November 1964 than that Negro youths be given better opportunities to an education equal to their capabilities."

Hannah spoke on the opening day of the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

It is not only a problem of the Deep South, he said.

"In my own state of Michigan, there is a very real problem in Detroit, but no one there is really working at it."

"In the South, the vital problem is to upgrade the Negro institutions of higher education."

Herbert Roberts Receives Award In Tanganyika

Herbert C. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jovite Roberts, Rte. 1, Gladstone, was recently honored at a ceremony in Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika, where he was presented with a Meritorious Service Award by William Leonhart, U. S. Ambassador to Tanganyika and Zanzibar.

Roberts, in addition to carrying out his regularly assigned duties as Training Officer of the United States Agency for International Development in Dar Es Salaam, designed and supervised the implementation of a government wide procedure for the Tanganyika Government to enable the Ministry of Education to maintain accurate records on over two thousand of its students studying in forty-five countries including the United States.

Roberts is a graduate of Escanaba High School and of Michigan State University.

Gladstone Host To Bloodmobile

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will travel to Gladstone on Tuesday, Nov. 10, on its second visit to Delta County this fall. The first clinic was in Escanaba Oct. 13-14 to allow an extra clinic on Dec. 22 in an effort to up the deficit of blood donations by Delta County people.

"Gladstone will have the opportunity to return to the honor role rating it achieved in May of this year," said Mrs. Edward C. Olsen, blood program chairman for the Red Cross.

The honor roll represents those communities that have collected 100 per cent or more of quota. At Gladstone on May 10 the quota was 95 pints and 110 pints were collected.

Eighty-three appointments have been made for the one-day stop at Gladstone to be held at the James T. Jones School from 3 to 7:30 p. m. Nov. 10. An extra one-half hour has been added to the usual four-hour schedule at the request of local donors. The quota is again 95 pints.

Recruitment for the Gladstone visit was conducted primarily through a notice sent home with school children, on which parents could reply by making an appointment and returning it with the child. Eleven hundred forms were distributed in Gladstone and 250 in Rapid River schools. Fifty-two appointments were made by this method.

"We anticipate that some parents will appear who have not returned the forms," said Mrs. Olsen. "Gladstone residents I believe take a just pride in their support of this program to distribute free blood whenever and wherever it is needed to help the residents of Delta County."

Teacher Wrong On Army Song

WASHINGTON (AP) — This may jolt her teacher, but 7th grader Debbie Greenberg is right about the official Army song.

Debbie and her teacher had a difference of opinion on this question recently.

She contended the Army's tune is the "Caisson Song." He insisted it is "The Ballad of Rodger Young."

Debbie knew it is hard to win an argument with a teacher unless you have some evidence on your side.

So she went to the source, writing a letter from her home at Westbury, N.Y., to "United States Army, c/o the Pentagon Building, Washington, D.C."

"I know you are very busy and cannot be bothered with heavy nonsense, but I have an important favor to ask you," she started out.

Then Debbie told about her discussion with her teacher:

"I had to name four service songs. I named the Navy's (no offense), the Air Force's, the Marines', then I named the Caisson Song for the Army."

"He so sweetly said no. After this response my heart sank to the bottom of my stomach. I argued in a polite way that I was right. He thinks the Army song is 'Rodger Young.'"

Almost plaintively, Debbie said she had consulted every library and reference source — "I have even stopped every kind of serviceman on the street."

"I hate to bother you men in Washington," she apologized, "but this means a lot to me. I am not trying to show my teacher up, all I am interested in is the Army song."

"If you are too busy to write back, maybe you could have one of the soldiers in a remote section of the world answer me."

After signing the letter, Debbie added as a P.S.: "You're very sweet. Thanks a million."

Maybe it was the P.S. that did it.

Anyway, the matter came to the attention of a general who wrote back a "Dear Debbie" letter confirming that "our song is 'The Army Goes Rolling Along' and it is based on the old Caisson Song."

"My answer will please you but it probably will not do the same for your teacher," the general said wryly.

17. Dry Subfloors

When the subfloor of a newly built home shrinks, openings may develop between the strips of the finish hardwood flooring. As a precaution in protecting hardwood floors, insist that specifications call for "dry" softwood boards, preferably kiln dried. A good practice is to ask your contractor to use a moisture meter to determine the exact moisture content of both the subflooring and the finish flooring at time of installation.

Party Rebuilding Studied In GOP

EDITOR'S NOTE — In this Associated Press survey, Republican leaders across the land give their views on rebuilding the party and look ahead to GOP chances in the 1966 and 1968 elections.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many influential Republicans across the country expect Richard M. Nixon to play a leading role in rebuilding the GOP for what most of them think will be a strong 1966 comeback.

Nixon, the 1960 presidential nominee, and GOP Govs. George Romney of Michigan, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York were most frequently mentioned as prospective leaders of this comeback in an Associated Press survey.

Goldwater Wanes

The survey, reaching GOP officials in all sections of the nation, disclosed little enthusiasm for another presidential race by defeated Sen. Barry Goldwater. There were many suggestions that he yield control of the party machinery as the result of the shattering impact of President Johnson's landslide.

Nixon, who campaigned actively for Goldwater, was mentioned by Republicans from all sections of the country as a man to be reckoned with in the next four years.

Oklahoma State Chairman John W. Tyler, commented: "I think we're going to see an awful lot of Mr. Nixon real quick. I think he's the only man who can pull the party together."

South Carolina State Chairman J. Drake Edens Jr. said Nixon "is the man you have to watch in the party." Robert L. Pierce, Wisconsin national committeeman, observed that "Nixon looks good" in party fortunes at this point. Wisconsin State Chairman Talbot Peterson said he thinks the reins of national party control should be handed to somebody like Nixon.

Romney Mentioned

"I heard more good things about Nixon this time and there are some who will never be convinced that things wouldn't have been different if he had been the nominee again," Peterson said.

Benjamin F. Dillingham, Hawaii national committeeman, said the party should regroup around "someone who will represent the true consensus of the conservatives." He named Nixon and Scranton as possibilities.

Minnesota National Committeeman George Etzell forecast that Nixon will play a strong future party role.

Next to Nixon, Romney, who won re-election handily while Johnson was carrying Michigan, was most often mentioned as the future party leader.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, also re-elected against the Democratic trend, called Romney and Scranton "fine leaders" who should play a part in rebuilding the party. Robert Corber, Virginia state chairman, predicted that "someone in the image of Gov. Romney" will emerge on top.

Rep. Stanley R. Tupper, R-Maine, named Rockefeller, Romney, Scranton, Chafee, Henry Cabot Lodge and Nixon as potential leaders.

Gov. Henry Bennett of Oklahoma listed Gov. John A. Love of Colorado, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Scranton and Nixon as among those who should lead in party rebuilding.

The Republicans were almost unanimous in their belief that the GOP can recover from its massive defeat and make a strong showing in 1966 and 1968.

Not Dead Yet

GOP State Chairman Craig Truax of Pennsylvania said the coalition of Democratic forces now headed by Johnson "should not be formidable if the Republican party offers progressive alternatives to Democratic dogma."

"The American people inherently move away from the type of monolithic power structure they now see in Washington and will support the Republican party with renewed vigor," he said.

Few agreed with Montana National Committeeman James E. Murphy "that we'll be back in four years with our own landslide." J. Herman Saxon, North Carolina Republican state chairman, said "unless something happens to President Johnson, I wouldn't think we have much of a chance at the White House for eight years."

Colorado's Gov. Love said that "any thought that the Republican party is dead is ridiculous."

"We will pick up governorships, congressional seats and other offices in 1966 and in 1968 we will have a GOP president," he said.

Pendulum Swings

Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, chairman of the GOP conference of governors, said Republicans will have to concentrate on winning governorships two years from now in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Nebraska, North Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, California and Oregon.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said that with Johnson at the head of the ticket it is going to be difficult for Republicans to win in his state.

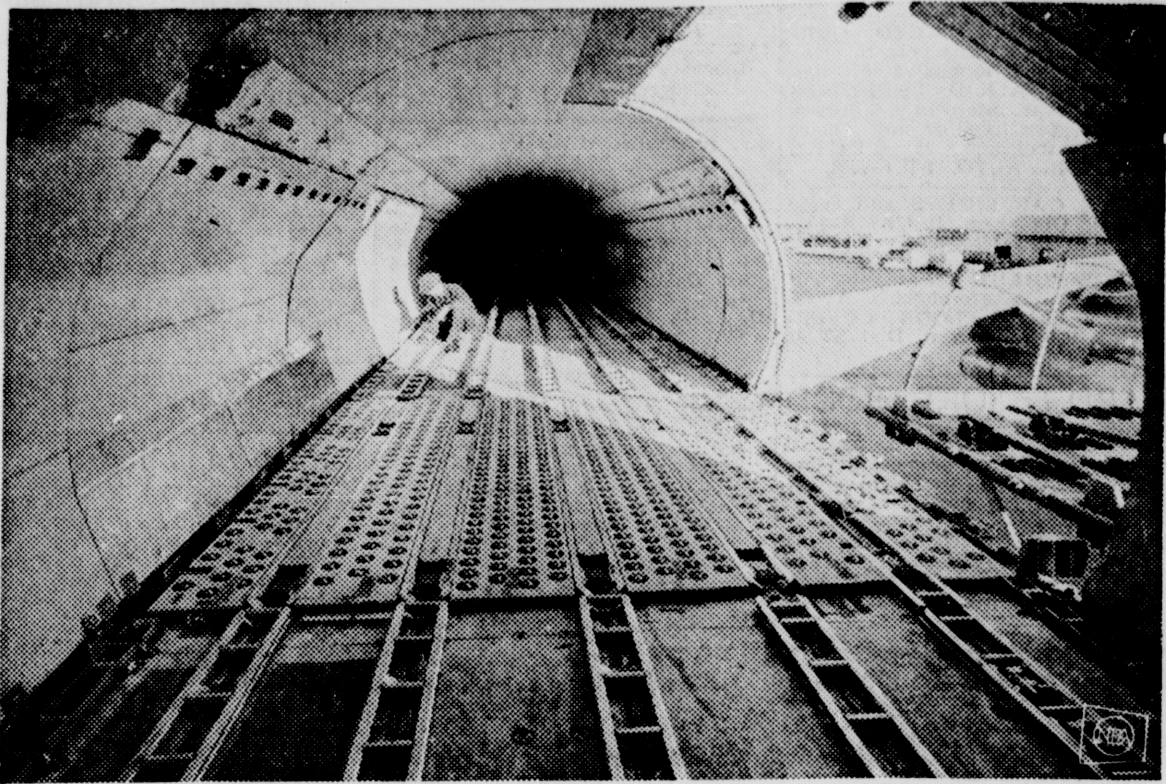

"If Hubert Humphrey were president there is no question in my mind that the Republicans would carry Texas," he said.

John Gromala, president of California Young Republicans and a strong Goldwater man, blamed the election defeat on party members who didn't support the national ticket.

Dr. Thomas Brigham, acting Alabama state chairman, said Republicans won in his state through a strong grassroots organization he predicted will spread throughout the South.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Democrat who turned Republican to support Goldwater, predicts "the pendulum will swing back."

Florida has three national forests totaling more than a million acres. These are the Apalachicola, Ocala and Osceola National Forests.

GETTING IT THERE FASTER—This is what a commercial jet cargo plane looks like. Boeing is making cargo jets that have a capacity of 9,786 cubic feet, long and wide enough to contain two bowling alleys. The jet can carry a load of 45 tons across the United States with a normal fuel load.

Deer Country Needs Managing

EAST LANSING — People owning "deer country" land—whether for hunting or simply the enjoyment of seeing animals in their natural habitat—need management plans if they expect to continue to produce healthy herds of white-tailed deer each year.

"Some of these people owning land as individuals or as members of clubs have been looking for ways of maintaining or improving living conditions for deer," according to Charles Shick, Michigan State University wildlife specialist.

"Development and adaptation of deer management plans, allowing a continuous crop of healthy deer for both recreation and enjoyment, often require time, patience and usually some outlay of cash. Good plans must be based on an understanding of deer biology—reproduction rates under various living conditions, seasonal food and cover needs of the animals."

Plans tailored for each particular area should consider existing living conditions and management measures used on surrounding lands, comments Shick. Such plans, to be economically sound should consider valuable natural resources such as timber, soil and water in addition to the deer population.

Blocks of several thousand acres are more suited for deer management than small areas. Large areas generally have diversified cover and include both winter and summer range-land. Management plans for large tracts also do not require as much consideration of existing conditions on surrounding lands.

"Where land ownership is broken into small units and owner cooperation is good, property owners might organize and operate under a single management plan," adds Shick. "But this approach demands full cooperation from all landowners."

While Michigan deer roam large areas in the summer as they search summer food, it's a different story in the northern areas of the state during the winter months. Deep snow and severe winter weather generally restrict deer to sheltered areas in swamps, lowlands next to streams and lakes or in heavy upland tree cover. Food availability from January through April is usually critical in these areas.

Further deer management recommendations and information about deer biology are available in a new Extension Bulletin, E-427, entitled "Deer Management on Private Lands." Free copies are available from county Cooperative Extension Service offices or by writing to: Bulletin Office, 10 Agricultural Hall, MSU, East Lansing.

COURT DRAMA

GRAHAM, N.C. (P)—Prosecuting witness Robert Harvey, testifying in a larceny case, was carried away with later proceedings, then was carried away himself.

Harvey heartily approved testimony of another witness. He applauded.

Superior Court Judge James L. Latham of Burlington turned to the bailiff, Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Craven, with two directives:

"Sheriff, bring that man up here. Sheriff, put that man in jail." The citation; contempt of court.

Harvey completed one of the shorter jail terms on record—one hour.
